Warsaw will not increase payroll tax

Council hopes recent cuts will be enough

Warsaw City Council has rejected Mayor C.E. French's proposal to raise the city payroll tax.

Four councilmen opposed the tax hike at Monday's monthly meeting. They were: Nelson Brown, Jerry Hunt, Keith Jones, and Randy Jones. The proposal would have raised Warsaw's current one-percent payroll tax to 1.25 percent for one year.

Mayor French had proposed raising the tax because of a large shortfall in the city's General Fund. Accountant Jeff Woods warned council about the city's $195,000 deficit last November. In addition, the city has had to pay Bob Weldon $32,500 to settle a legal suit over a drainage pipe installed on his land without permission.

Nevertheless, council did not want to raise the rate so quickly on the heels of the recent water/sewer rate hike.

"I know we had a rough year and the law suits have put us behind," said councilman Brown. "But the city is on the right track with the cuts we've made and now is not the time to raise taxes. People are hurting."

Councilman Randy Jones agreed, saying: "We've made cuts and we're going with a thin, shoestring (police) force. Let's see what these cuts will do."

Jones also questioned the temporary nature of the tax hike. "Once something goes up, it never goes down," he said. "If we vote for this we probably won't be reelected and who knows if the people sitting here next year will honor (ending the tax)."

After hearing the opposition, Mayor French tabled the matter, saying, "I don't want to raise taxes either but things have gotten tight. In years past, Jeff Woods has come in here and we've hoped it would be better next year but that hasn't happened. It's time to take action."

The city's budget woes date back to the closing of the ATS plant in December 2007 and the loss of 200 jobs. The plant was purchased in September and there are plans to employ 40 people.

More than 100 animals seized from woman's home on US 42

A Gallatin County woman faces animal cruelty charges for the second time after police seized more than 100 dogs, chickens and ducks from her home on U. S. 42 East, last Friday.

Karen Bryant was first charged in January 2011, after authorities found 26 dogs at her home near the Boone County line. Last Friday, she was charged again when officers discovered 20 dogs, 76 chickens and seven ducks at her home. She will appear in court on March 20.

"Most of the animals were living in terrible conditions and there was no sign of food or water around," said Gallatin County Animal Control Officer Bobby Nunn. "Some were locked up in crates, others were chained up in mud holes and most looked like they hadn't been fed in days. One of the dogs we took has already died and I'm not sure how many others will survive."

All of Bryant's dogs were taken to the Gallatin County Animal Shelter, which is now filled to capacity.

"We are desperately in need of foster homes for these dogs," said Nunn. "We can't adopt them out until Bryant's case goes to court but we need all the help we can get to take care of these dogs."

A foster home has already been found for Bryant's chickens and ducks. The National Humane Society is helping police with the investigation.

Nunn describes Bryant's trailer and the property around it as filthy.

"I've never seen anything like it," Nunn said. "The trailer was filled with all kinds of stuff. There was only a small path cleared to walk through and that path was covered in two or three inches of dog feces. It was disgusting."

After her arrest in 2011, charges were dismissed against Bryant on the condition that she keep no more than 10 dogs.

"I thought she got off too easy a year ago," said Nunn. "This time I hope she gets what she deserves. If it were up to me, I'd never let her have another animal."

County praises those who aided victims of tornadoes

Last Thursday's Gallatin County Fiscal Court meeting began with a moment of silence for all the people who died or suffered losses in the March 2 tornadoes that ravaged the region.

Also during the meeting, Judge/executive Ken McFarland commended county residents and emergency personnel who volunteered to help those affected by the deadly storms.

"We were lucky in Gallatin County and didn't have nearly the damage they had just a few miles away," said Judge/executive McFarland. "But we have lots of good people in our county who helped those in need and we should be grateful for their efforts."

Additionally, the court agreed to expand the way residents are notified in times of dangerous weather by making warning calls to cell phones.

Sparta Department Store has closed

The Sparta Department Store, which has been a landmark in the middle of Sparta for more than 100 years, has closed.

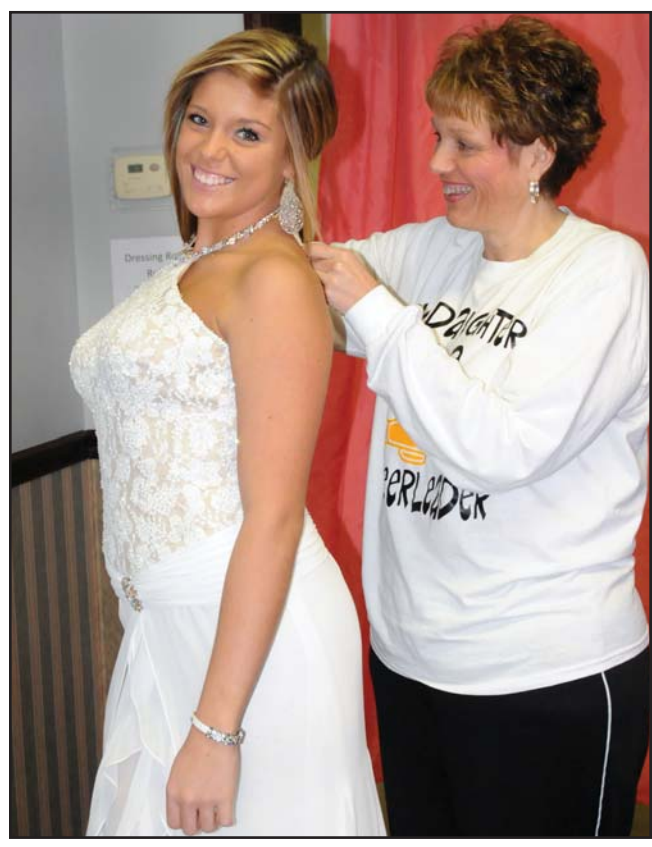

"It just became too much for me and I decided it was time to walk away," said Carol Farrar, the store's owner for the past 15 years. Farrar also delivers mail for the U. S. Postal Service's office in Sparta.

The Sparta Department Store was a convenience store that sat on the corner of KY 35 and KY 467. For decades, it has been a meeting place where people have gathered for conversation and coffee. It also had a reputation for having the best ham sandwich in the area.

The small town of Sparta enjoyed an economic boom back in 1869 when the railroad came to town. After that, bars, hotels, livestock auctions and businesses such as the Sparta Department Store thrived. Business declined in the town after passenger trains quit stopping in the 1960s but the Department Store had been able to remain open until last week.

Farrar said the store's new owner, Josh Chapman, plans to convert the building into a sports bar.

Something exciting is going on

This and That

By Kelley Warnick
Editor

Something exciting is going on all around us.

For months, most mornings have been pretty much the same around my house. I stumble into the kitchen and look out the window as I wait for the coffee to perk. I look but it has been a long time since I have seen anything because it has been so dark.

Last Thursday, however, was different. After rubbing the sleep from my eyes, I looked out the window and saw something marvelous on the horizon. What a glorious sight the big red sun made as it climbed above the ridge tops of the Ohio River Valley.

I stood there and admired the scene for a few moments and then discovered the sunrise wasn't the only thing that demanded my attention. As it turned out, there was lots going on around my home that was out of the ordinary.

After finishing off a little breakfast, I opened the front door to see if my two dogs, Maggie and Honey, were ready to begin the day. To my surprise, the whole yard was filled with birds. And not just any kind of birds either, but robins. There were dozens of them. Beginning the day with a beautiful sunrise and an army of robins made me stop and think for a while.

I walked outside and noticed something new in the landscaping that surrounds my house. For months the scene out there has looked pretty much the same. There has been nothing but soggy mulch, leafless shrubs, cold evergreens and a few old deer bones the dogs enjoy collecting.

But all of a sudden there was something else. I could see small green shoots stretching out to reach the sunlight that will guarantee their survival. I figured that was further proof our world was changing.

After all that excitement, I headed back inside, picked up a newspaper and found even more exciting information.

On the sports page, I couldn't find one story about football. There was, however, plenty of baseball news. Pitchers were throwing in Florida, homeruns were flying out of the spring training fields in Arizona and the Cincinnati Reds were expecting a good year from their young shortsop.

That's not all. An advertisement said it was time to start shopping for swimsuits. I couldn't remember the last time I even read the word swimsuit.

Inside the paper there was more news that grabbed that my interest. A gardening expert advised his readers to fertilize fruit trees, plant evergreens and put down sod. I knew the columnist must have been delighted because it was the first time he had anything to write about since Thanksgiving.

I didn't need any more clues. It could mean only one thing if the days were getting longer, robins had returned, flowers were starting to stir, pitchers were throwing and bikinis were on sale. Spring is in the air and not a moment too soon.

Thanks for the News!

Dear Editor:

I want to say "thank you" for last week's issue of the Gallatin County News. It was good to be reminded that in the midst of all the tragic news of tornado damage and loss of life and school shootings, etc., good things are happening.

I especially enjoyed Kelley Warnick's "This & That" column regarding Jordan Morris's triumph, as well as Skip Smith's letter regarding David Hull's good deed.

My husband, Joe, and I live next door to Jordan Morris's grandmother, Jane Morris. When Jordan and his sister, Alex, were young children and visiting their grandmother, they "helped" Joe with a chore one day. Joe gave Jordan a dollar and told him to split it with his sister. He promptly tore the dollar bill in half.

Local schools criticized

Dear Editor:

I was recently fired from my substitute teaching job by Ray Spahn, who did not have the manners to ask me to a meeting to discuss a serious problem. Is this how he deals with students and teachers? No professionalism.

I would have liked to speak with the parent who made the complaint about me talking to their child about sex. Perhaps this parent wants all the child's sex education to come from home or church. That's fine, but is this parent living in reality?

Sex and sex talk goes on with the students in the schools. Drugs and drug use and drug talk goes on in the schools. Want to do anything that might help the problem? If the school policy is that talking about sex or perhaps even drugs is off limits, then perhaps the school board should determine how to handle the issue other than by refusing to talk about it.

Is Gallatin a progressive school where every student graduates with a well-rounded knowledge of both scholastic subjects and the qualifications to face the world?

Right now, I have not found many students who even know how to go about critically thinking to solve any problem.

I suggest each member of the school board spend a day as a substitute teacher. Do not tell them you're on the school board and you will find there is no discipline or respect for a substitute teacher.

Students do not follow the simplest instructions. They show no motivation to learn and most cannot answer simple questions about assignments.

They chew and spit tobacco. They shove and hit one another. They throw pencils and paper wads. The school's solution to behavior problems is for the teacher to write an incident report.

When I threatened a student with an incident report, I was told it wouldn't be their first and to go ahead and write them up.

I observed a child with the soles of his shoes falling off and tied to his feet with shoe laces.

Who in the school is helping this child? I observed children with nose pins and ear plugs. Why is this allowed under the present dress code? I saw a girl whose breasts were almost falling out of her shirt, all cleavage exposed. Why is this allowed?

I spent approximately 30 years working as a Registered Nurse. I have a B.A. in psychology and a B.S. in petroleum geology. I have vast experience in dealing with people of all ages, not only caring for the sick, but counseling people who are dying.

I have raised six children and know the challenges of raising and educating children. The first lesson I know is that children must be encouraged to express what's on their minds. After that, they will listen.

I have had several businesses and have traveled extensively around the world. I know how hard it is to start at the bottom of the ladder and work your way to the top. I know both poverty and wealth. It's hard to fool me.

I did not apply to substitute teach for the money, but because I believe I can contribute and possibly even inspire a child. That was a personal challenge.

Kentucky Commentary

Our horse farmers need gambling to survive

According to Alfred Nuckols, owner of Hurstland Farm, the biggest challenge he faces and the biggest challenge to the horse breeding industry is the wagering issue.

For more than a century, "wagering" to horse farmers like Nuckols has meant pari-mutuel betting on races — the "follow the money" that kept horse breeding a major business in Kentucky after the automobile era began. Bets fund race purses and purses are the fundamental basis for horses' value.

Now, small breeders and boarders like Nuckols say "wagering" has to mean more — slot machines and table games at casinos — to keep them afloat, so Kentucky can compete with other states that boost purses and breeders' awards with casino proceeds.

But even though horses generate more money than any other agricultural product in Kentucky, the General Assembly has again failed to offer voters a constitutional amendment to allow casinos, and that's chasing horses from the state and leaving farmers like Nuckols facing a very uncertain future.

Nuckols, 61, told us he had to sell 100 acres of his farm last year "to please my banker," and is foaling and boarding fewer mares than ever, and his children are not interested in making a sixth generation of Nuckolses in the business.

"It's going to be very difficult for farms like mine to stay around much longer," he said.

Turfway Park in Northern Kentucky recently announced a 25-percent cut in purses after the casino amendment failed in the state Senate, probably a death knell for that track - and for the year-round Kentucky racing circuit that has helped keep small horse farms in business. Cincinnati, a few miles north of Turfway, will have a casino in 2013.

Turfway's announcement came the day after New York and Florida tracks announced they would raise purses more than 25 percent with money from expanded gambling.

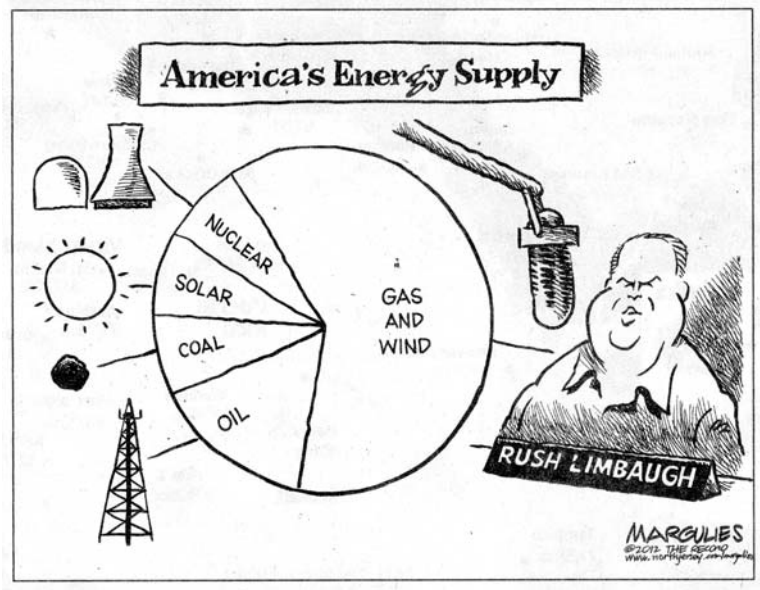

Nuckols shakes his head at the Kentucky legislature's refusal to follow suit, but he also acknowledged misgivings that many breeders have about casinos. He said he's not a strong advocate because he fears that gaming interests would become too powerful, to the detriment of the horse industry, but at least for now, "We need to level the playing field."

A skeptic should ask: Is the horse industry worth propping up? Why not let the market rule and let farms like Hurstland fall by the wayside? Because horses are this state's signature industry, one that generates much tourism and gives us a brand badly needed by a state whose problems all too often make it the butt of jokes in national media.

And, as Alfred Nuckols reminded us, it is a "green industry," both literally and figuratively, one that makes the Bluegrass nationally admired and, in many ways, a sort of park. As the financial underpinnings of the industry are eroded, land values will fall and some of that grass will go to blacktop and concrete. Scores of Bluegrass horse farms are in managed foreclosures or workout situations with the lenders, according to former Gov. Brereton Jones, another horse breeder.

Eventually, a casino amendment may pass. But it will probably be too late for Alfred Nuckols and many other small horse farmers who carry one of our state's richest heritages and give it a unique culture and identity — one that should not be put at risk by political cowardice and ineptitude.

cust and Water streets to the public. The action was part of the legal settlement to Bob Weldon who owns property at that location. Owners of nearby properties have consented. Council's vote was unanimous.

•The city will add two stop signs at the Third and Market Street intersection. This will create a four-way stop in front of Maines Hardware and the Old Show Building.

•City Clerk Carolyn Marksberry said Water Commissioner Eric Moore has started hooking up residents of Carver's Trail to the city sewer system. The sewer hook ups are part of the county's sewer expansion project.

•Mayor French will call state officials about funding street repair on U.S. 42 East and the intersection of U.S. 42 and Main Cross.

•Council considered bids for surplus equipment. Clifford Higgins had the winning bids for a sidebar mower ($250), a trailer ($200) and a finishing mower ($100).

He and Joseph Gould each bid $1,000 for a Massey Ferguson 245 Tractor. They will be invited to re-bid.

•Wayne Rassman addressed council on behalf of the county's tourism board. He said there are plans to expand this summer's barbecue festival and concerts. He also presented a "wish list" of improvements for the city park, including expanding the stage area, providing picnic tables and paving the walkway to the dock.

"We know the budget's tight," he said. "But we'd like to see some improvements each summer."

Glencoe discusses insurance options

By Mike Dickerson
News Reporter

Glencoe city council approved automatic renewal of the city's 2012 insurance policy at Monday's city council meeting. The renewal provides a $1,150 reduced premium because the city transferred all law enforcement liabilities to the Gallatin County Sherriff's office in 2011.

The reduced premium opens the door for the city to consider additional insurance coverage. The city may consider adding a $1 million excess liability umbrella policy that would be added to the current $2 million coverage. The additional coverage would cost an additional $1,000 per year.

Council member JuJu Sullivan objected to the additional cost. "We can use this $1,000 elsewhere," he said. "It's a waste of money that we would be throwing out the window."

Others disagreed, including council member Charlotte Adams. As a business owner, she cited the need for additional coverage. Council member Mike Hampton agreed, saying: "We can't have enough insurance."

Council member Julia Proctor mentioned other liability issues. "We need to consider our Frontier Days event and how many people we have for the 127 Yard Sale," she said.

Further discussion centered on the lack of Workers Compensation coverage by the city. An annual premium of $307 would cover all city employees at all functions. Again Sullivan objected, questioning the cost. But when he learned the coverage would pay 100 percent of medical expenses for an injured city worker, he agreed to the plan.

Since a decision on the additional coverage was not immediately needed, council member Adams, who was presiding over the meeting in the absence of Mayor Jim Nantz, decided to table the decisions until the April meeting.

In other business:

•Council agreed to research the cost of putting up a Glencoe City Hall sign.

•Council member Rick Dunaway said he would ask the sewer board to investigate records and determine if easements were properly granted by James Ethridge to the city for sewer construction.

•Ethridge has argued that easements were never granted and his property should not be taxed since no service existed on the land.

pay about 80 percent of the bus's purchase price. The grant will also pay for about 50 percent of the cost to operate the bus. McFarland hopes the bus will be on the road by this summer.

•McFarland said the court is still trying to find a company to provide high speed Internet service to the county. He plans to meet with Williamstown officials about their successful Internet provider.

•The Court agreed to establish a new property zone to control how camping areas are operated. The new zone requires camping areas to be at least 10 acres and have water and sewage service. It also limits such things as lighting, density, green space and lengthy of stay.

•McFarland said the growing cost of health insurance is becoming a burden for the county. Union Health Care, the company that covers county employees, has increased its rate 41 percent in the past two years. McFarland hopes to find a more affordable plan.

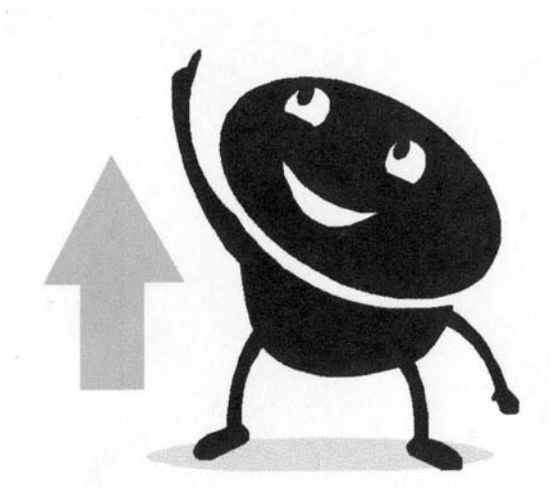

•County Attorney Spike Wright said he's looking into a plan that could save the county thousands of dollars in jail fees. If the plan is approved, nonviolent offenders would be incarcerated in their homes by use of cell phones and ankle bracelets at a cost of between $10 and $14 a day. Currently, the county pays $30 a day to keep offenders behind bars.

•On Wright's suggestion, the court agreed to begin offering CPR training to all county employees.

Pictured below are the winners of the local spelling bee held in December, 2011. Seventh grade student Cheyenne Siffel won the middle school spelling bee and second grade student Kennedy Dzuba won the lower elementary school spelling bee. Kennedy is a student in Mrs. Amanda O'Connor's class at Gallatin County Lower Elementary School.

Both girls took online tests to qualify for the regional spelling bee held Saturday, February 25, at the Underground Railroad Freedom Center in Cincinnati. This was Cheyenne's second year representing Gallatin County Middle School. Both Cheyenne and Kennedy advanced to the second round at the regional spelling bee. They competed against 60 other students.

Cheyenne is the daughter of Wesley and Teresa Siffel of Sparta.

Kennedy is the daughter of Eldon and Kelly Dzuba of Ghent.

Gallatin County Extension and 4-H Youth Development Agent Lora Stewart and 4-H volunteer Lora Beth Sadler accompanied a group of 4-H members to Jabez, Ky., near Lake Cumberland, to attend "Team Summit", at the 4-H Leadership Center, March 1-3. The 4-H members were all Gallatin County Middle School students who were there to receive their 4-H Middle School Honors Award. The students earn this prestigious award by proving their merit through exhibits, demonstration of leadership, and communication. All the students help lead after school clubs and are, themselves, involved in a variety of 4-H clubs.

Tennis teams tie Trimble in opener

Damron and Clark at #1

Mark Gray
Sports Reporter

The Gallatin County tennis teams opened up their season last Thursday against Trimble County. Both the girls and boys matches ended in a 2-2 tie. The contest was suspended due to darkness.

Boys

In boys singles play, Garrett Damron won 6-3 and the doubles team of Jacob Crawford/Tyler Morgan won 8-0.

Eli Ackermann/Luke Ackermann lost in doubles and Brady Carlton lost in singles.

Girls

Girls #1 singles Savannah Clark won 6-1, 7-5 and #2 Rachel Noble narrowly lost 7-6, 7-6.

In doubles, Amelia Sanders/Jonna Ross won 8-3 and Melissa Besselman/Deanna Griffin lost 6-3.

Trent Maddox hopes to play more college hoops

Ends career at Sinclair

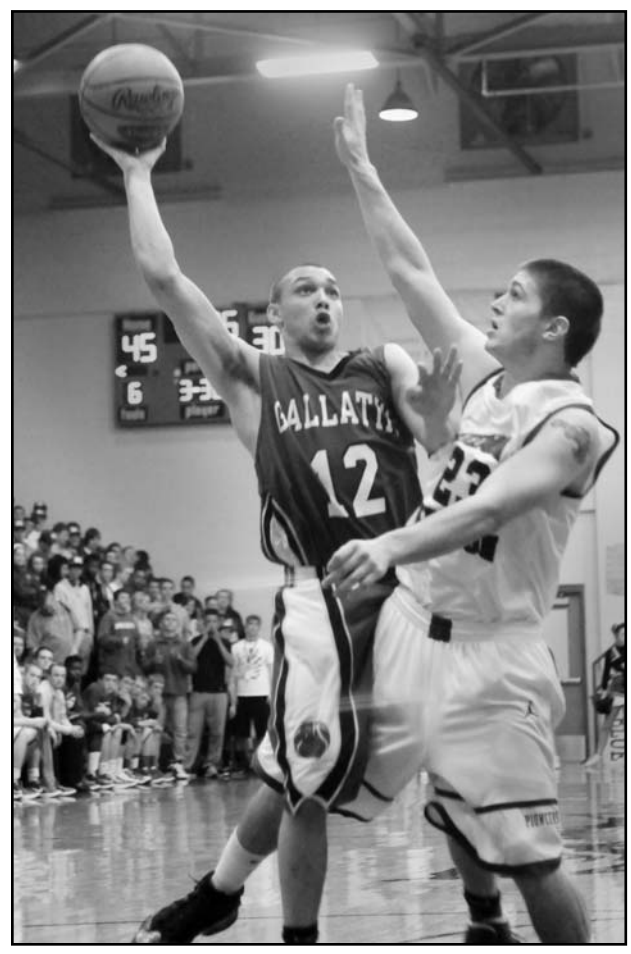

Mark Gray
Sports Reporter

Former Gallatin County Wildcat Trent Maddox has wrapped up his basketball career at Sinclair Junior College. Maddox finished 17th in the NJCAA in free throw shooting this season with 82 percent.

The former Wildcat standout is looking to pursue his career at another school. He has two years of eligibility remaining.

8th Region Standouts

Travis Davis, left, and Kristian Morgan were selected for the All 8th Region Tournament team last week. Here, they play against Simon Kenton in the opening round. Both Wildcats were also selected for the All 8th Region Team. Photos by Kelley Warnick

Sports in Kentucky

It's On!

Best three weeks in sports? Roll out the jargon: Big Dance ... brackетology ... good draw-bad draw ... 'we wuz robbed' .. One Shining Moment.

Bonus? The Bluegrass State is so near the middle of it all, we can hear the heart beats. Heck, we ARE the heartbeat.

Kentucky earned the No. 1 seed, Western Kentucky got a play-in; Murray State is the lone once-beaten; and Louisville, like a good Derby horse, roared out of the pack to win its league tournament then was cast as underdog to Davidson. Peculiar that, but perfect for Big Mo.

College basketball's place on the calendar reduces all else in sports to below-the-fold also-stuff. This includes Peyton Manning's next stop, Kentucky Derby candidate Union Rags, the NIT field and USA's only unbeaten college baseball team, University of Kentucky, 16-0).

Big Dance

From San Diego State to Harvard yard, all things are possible and moves us to anticipate who will be this year's Butler and VCU? Which big dog will fall first: North Carolina, Kansas, Michigan State, Kentucky? Who will be Ty Rogers for 2012?

SEC Tournament. As if scripted, John Calipari's team rid itself of (perceived?) pressure from 24-wins-in-a-row Sunday. Pressure removed, a game film is the result. A Vanderbilt production. Video title: Ways to beat Kentucky. The Commodores' win, and it was more than a UK loss, was tough, smart, relentless, no surrender, swish and "hey, Kentucky IS beatable!"

A career moment too for Kevin Stallings and a four-word catapult to the Commodores: "Yes! We CAN beat anybody."

In Kentucky a few cautionary notes for our Big Dance entries. Flashing yellow lights that could undo a March march.

1. Beware of the Praises of March. They are many, frequent, well-intentioned and in the NCAAs, a distraction. This includes NBA draft order buzz.

2. Try and forget – before the clocks fall back in autumn, four or more beloveds on this team will have packed up and gone from Lexington, including one destined for legend-status here and in the black hole (NBA), 19-year-old Anthony Davis.

3. Promising UK teams past have lapsed into mysterious shooting holes and were dispatched early on empty trips home, (see Georgetown, 1984).

4. Talking-head punditry touting Kentucky-Syracuse final. Ignore it.

5. Numbers to avoid – five, zero and 16. Michael Kidd-Gilchrist points, rebounds and minutes in SEC title game.

6. Calling Terrence Jones's number early prevents a Jones disappearance (Indiana).

7. Recall Al McGuire NCAA tourney golden rule: "One, maybe two games, will be decided at the free throw line."

8. Ignore Dick Vitale altogether.

9. 28 and six. Number of threes tried and made last Sunday. (See UK-West Virginia, NCAA 2010).

10. Doron Lamb pout. Contributed to his two-of-11 shooting in 32 minutes against Vandy. NBA scouts notice.

11. Anthony Davis ... no repeat performance of 34 minutes against Festus Ezeli and Steve Tchiengang.

12. Anthony Davis average four blocks in his last six college games.

13. Snatch and grab fouls away from the ball – Darius Miller and Doron Lamb.

14. Laugh off John Calipari's whine about the South bracket "The only thing I was happy about is I heard that they were trying to get an exemption for the (Miami) Heat to be the second seed in our bracket and they weren't allowed to."

Here's what some of our friends have been doing:

Chip & Nick Boots were several of many volunteers to go to Piner to help with the clean up after the tornado. Their mom, Bev Andrew, is very proud of both her sons for their charitable services over the past years. Bev also has a son, Lee, living in LaGrange, who serves as a police officer in Jefferson County. Rick Andrew is the very proud step-father.

Diane and Ron Young celebrated the third birthday of their grandchildren, Jeffery and Lila, last Saturday. The children enjoyed a breakfast bar, pajama party, and fun and fellowship with family and friends. Diane and Ron enjoyed the day together on Monday going for a run and then out for a nice lunch. Diane said the storm was right on top of them last Friday, but thankfully everyone is all right. HAPPY BIRTHDAY JEFFERY AND LILA!

Carol Estes retired on February 29 from a 33 year career with the Commonwealth of KY - Education and Workforce Development Cabinet. Most of those years have been as a Branch Manager for Supported Employment Services, a statewide program that provides assistance for individuals with disabilities to find employment in the community. Three retirement receptions were held in February for Carol, two in Frankfort and the largest one in Lexington on the Coldstream Campus of the University of Kentucky. Carol received recognition from the Commissioner of the Cabinet, Joe Meyer, who attended with his wife, Dale. (Dale Meyer worked with Carol in Covington in the 1970s.) Approximately 80 people who have been a part of Carol's personal life and work life through these 33 years came to wish her well. Carol says she now is getting adjusted to the freedom of retirement, and has especially enjoyed having coffee in the morning at home without having to rush out to Frankfort, Lexington, Carrollton or Louisville!

CONGRATULATIONS ON YOUR RETIREMENT, CAROL.

Delores Hopperton celebrated her birthday. Sunday. with her loving family, Mishelle, Steve, Kera, Josh, and Kaleb Frontz; Brad, Jenny, Lila, Carter, and Madelyn Hopperton; and Terry Hopperton. The girls made a lovely lasagna dinner, then the family spent the afternoon in the park with the children. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, DELORES! Now we are the same age – 39!

Joanna Haymond continues to improve. She is now free of the "big boot" and is getting around very nicely with a walker. She's had countless visitors and well-wishers, and would like to thank everyone for their thoughtfulness and concern.

Barbara Finfrock has had a busy week! On Tuesday, she attended the program at the extension office called "Shed Five Pounds with Wardrobe Basics". Rosie Allen was the program instructor, and Barbara said it was extremely interesting and lots of fun. On Friday, Barbara drove to Crestview Hills to have lunch with her friend of 45 years, Carolyn James. The ladies enjoyed getting together at Applebee's. On Saturday, Barbara had lunch at the Sunset Grill with her son and daughter-in-law, Mike and Aggie Finfrock. It was a particularly enjoyable occasion, since Mike has just returned from studying in Germany for three weeks.

Doris Combs has had visitors this week. Last Friday her nephew, Corey Isaacs, surprised her with a framed picture of her dear grandmother, Susan Isaacs. On Sunday, Doris enjoyed a visit from her granddaughter, Lisa Gibson, great-grandchildren Clayton and Jade Gibson, and Lisa's fiance, Cody Reed. Lisa and Cody are excited about their upcoming nuptials, which will take place Saturday at the Methodist Church. Following Lisa and Cody's visit, Doris enjoyed a brief visit from her daughter, Terry Combs-Caldwell and her grandson, Zak.

Amy Dickerson and son, Hayden, drove to Florence, Saturday, to meet Amy's sister, Elizabeth Wartman of Dayton, Ky., and her brother, Tom Hollingsworth of Ludlow, Ky., for lunch at I-HOP. Following their lunch, Amy and Hayden enjoyed a shopping trip to Target. On Sunday, Amy and Hayden spent the afternoon with friend and neighbor, Elizabeth Brinker, and her sons Noah, Jonah, and Micah. The friends all watched the UK game together.

Friday night found Shirley Chipman, Ruthie Niebergall, Mae Wallace, Savanah Doolin, and Autaum Doolin enjoying a meal at Home Town Pizza followed by a slumber party. On Saturday, Shirley enjoyed treats at the Dairy Queen with Margaret Ruth, Mae Wallace, and Autaum and Savanah Doolin. Shirley's Saturday night visitors were Lanette and Jama Morrison. Shirley's Sunday dinner guests were Ethan Moore, Lanette and Jama Morrison, and Derina, Savanah, and Autaum Doolin. Shirley said it was a busy week, but feels blessed to have been able to spend time with her family.

Skeeter and Steve Braaten of Indianapolis visited Carla Moore Chavez at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Edgewood, Sunday morning. Mrs. Chavez is recovering from a recent illness. The Braatens then drove to Warsaw where they visited their granddaughters, Emma and Lydia Young, and daughter Candy Young. Norma Bladen also stopped by the Young home for a visit. After a brief visit and after getting the kids good and wound up, the Braatens returned to Indianapolis. Grandparents have all the fun!

Olivia Urso Nearly Spells Her Way To D.C.

The 2012 WCPO-TV Spelling Bee took place February 25, in downtown Cincinnati. Sixty-five school spelling bee champs from Southeast Indiana and Northern Kentucky were invited to compete for the Regional Championship and an all-expenses paid trip to the Scripps National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C.

If a speller misses even one letter in one word, they are eliminated. After seven rounds of words, only three students remained: Hannah Rodgers of Batesville, Indiana; Manu Nair of Union, Ky., and Olivia Urso of Gallatin County.

Olivia is a 7th grade student at Heritage Academy in Florence. After about ten rounds of words, only Manu Nair and Olivia Urso remained. For about six more rounds, Olivia and Manu traded perfect spellings of words. Finally, in the 17th round, Olivia missed a word and Manu did not. He will be competing in the nationally televised Scripps Spelling Bee.

Although disappointed at narrowly missing the National Bee, Olivia is proud to have qualified for the Regional Bee three times and placed so high in the competition. Last year she represented Heritage Elementary and two years ago represented Gallatin County Upper Elementary School. Some of the words Olivia spelled correctly at the Bee included kitsch, semolina, protocol, egalitarian, and parapet. Congratulations again, Olivia, and good luck next year!

The rates contained in this notice are the rates proposed by Duke Energy Kentucky. However, the Public Service Commission may order a rate to be charged that differs from these proposed rates. Such action may result in rates for consumers other than the rates in this notice. The foregoing rates reflect a proposed increase in electric revenues of approximately $3.1 million or 1.3% over current total electric revenues and a decrease of $0.5 million or (0.4)% over current gas revenues.

Any corporation, association, body politic or person may by motion within thirty (30) days after publication or mailing of notice of the proposed rate changes, request leave to intervene. The motion shall be submitted to the Public Service Commission, 211 Sower Boulevard, P.O. Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602 and shall set forth the grounds for the request including the status and interest of the party. Intervenors may obtain copies of the application and testimony by contacting Duke Energy Kentucky through Ms. Kristen Cocanougher, Duke energy, 139 East Fourth Street, 1212 Main, Cincinnati, Ohio 45201-0960. A copy of the application is also available for public inspection at Duke Energy Kentucky's office at 4580 Olympic Boulevard, Erlanger, Kentucky 41018.

Being the same property conveyed to Grantor herein, Richard Haines and his late wife, Linda Haines on October 25, and 26, 2004, from Bank One, and recorded in Deed Book 95, page 001, Gallatin County Clerks Records. Said Linda Haines died on November 17, 2008, and all her right, title and interest in this property passed to and vested in Grantor by virtue of the survivorship clause in that deed.

Said property shall be sold for the purpose of collecting the following judgment debt: A judgment in favor of the plaintiff(s) in the amount of $5,599.09 together with interest, assessments, taxes and costs herein expended.

TERMS OF SALE: The property shall be sold as a whole. The purchaser may pay all or part of the purchase price in cash, and may pay the balance of the purchase price on a credit of 30 days after date of sale; said credit shall be granted only upon the execution by the purchaser of bond, with surety thereon, and said surety shall be a lending institution, fidelity or surety company authorized and doing business in Kentucky or other surety approved by the Master Commissioner; an authorized officer of the surety must be present at the sale or must have given the Master Commissioner adequate assurance of its intent to be surety prior to or at the sale; said Bond shall be, and shall remain, a lien on the property sold as additional security for the payment of the full purchase price, and shall have the full force and effect of a Judgment; and said Bond shall bear interest at the rate of Twelve (12%) Percent per annum until paid. The purchaser shall be required to pay the sum of 10% of the bid amount in cash or certified check on the purchase at the time of sale. Risk of loss shall pass to the successful bidder at the close of the sale. The successful bidder at the sale shall, at bidder's own expense, carry fire and extended insurance coverage on any improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, with a loss payable clause to the Master Commissioner of the Gallatin Circuit Court. Failure of the purchaser to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the purchaser's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, a lien holder herein, after giving notice to the Master Commissioner, to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, and the premium thereon or the proper portion thereof shall be charged to the purchaser as purchaser's cost. The property shall be sold subject to ad valorem taxes for the year 2012 and all subsequent years thereafter; easements, restrictions and stipulations of record; assessments for public improvements levied against the property, if any; existing zoning ordinances, statutes, laws, or regulations; and any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose. BIDDERS SHALL BE PREPARED TO COMPLY WITH THESE TERMS.

Making progress

Good weather has allowed workmen at the Kentucky Speedway to stay ahead of schedule as they add a pedestrian tunnel under KY 35 and also widen access roads. The major highway has been closed since Jan. 18, because of the construction work. Photo by Kelley Warnick

AG AGENTS IN GALLATIN COUNTY

Epsilon Sigma Phi, a professional Extension association, recently released a publication detailing all tenures of every Extension Agent, in every county, all across the state. When I looked at Gallatin County, I came to an unbelievable realization; I have been here longer than any other Agriculture Agent in Gallatin County history! Nearly 19 years!

Why you dear and wonderful people haven't run me off by now is anybody's guess. But I'm sure glad you haven't. This has been a great place to make a home for my family and to make memories that will last a lifetime.

The other agents who have had the Ag Agent job here are: James McDanell, 1915-26; R.J. Matson, 1926-37; Harry Berge, 1931-37; Bill Straw, 1937-43; John Cochran, 1943-46; Estill Nofsinger, 1946-62; J.W. Poe, 1962-80; Joe Claxon III, 1980-85; John Schein, 1985-93; and yours truly, 1993-present.

TRI-COUNTY TOBACCO PRODUCTION UPDATE

An update meeting is scheduled for those planning on raising tobacco this coming year. Topics will focus on new varieties, fertilizer application, managing diseases and suggested good agricultural practices.

The meeting will be held on Tuesday, Mar 20, at 6:30 at the Jonesville Firehouse.A chili supper will be provided, so pre-registration is needed from the Grant Co Extension Office (859-824-3355.)

GRAIN PRODUCTION MEETING

Grain prices over the last few years have prompted many farmers to start raising corn and soybean crops.

In recent years, these have not been crops that many have considered, and many local farmers are not aware of a lot of new research and good agricultural practices that are considered common knowledge in the more traditional grain-producing areas.

To address some of these topics, a meeting has been scheduled on Tuesday, Mar 27, at 7pm at the Gallatin Co Extension Office just west of Warsaw on U.S. 42. If you have just started raising a grain crop in the past few years, consider making plans to attend this meeting.

Doctor Dirt is really David Hull, Gallatin County Extension Agent for Agriculture.

If you have farm or garden questions, stop by or call him at the Extension Office at 859/567-5481.

Or, email him at dhull@uky.edu.

Basic Disaster Supplies Kit

When our family recently headed to the basement during the tornado, I realized we were not prepared.

A basic emergency supply kit could include the following items:

-Water, one gallon of water per person per day for at least 3 days, for drinking and sanitation.

-Flashlight and extra batteries.

-Battery-powered radio with extra batteries.

-First aid kit.

-Whistle to signal for help.

-Dust mask to help filter contaminated air.

-Plastic sheeting and duct tape to shelter-in-place.

-Moist towelettes i.e. baby wipes, garbage bags and plastic ties for personal sanitation.

-Wrench or pliers to turn off utilities.

-Food, at least a 3-day supply of non-perishable food.

-Manual can opener for food.

-Local maps.

-Cell phone with charger, inverter (charger that plugs into car cigarette lighter) or solar charger.

ATTENTION BASKET-OF-MONTH:

A $25 registration fee for the March 22 Desktop Basket Session will be due by Monday, March 19. Contact Kathy Watts at 502-525-0273 with questions.

Spring Is Tornado Season

Provided by your Gallatin County Emergency Management Office Barry Alexander, Director

Tornadoes are nature's most violent storms. Spawned from powerful thunderstorms, tornadoes can cause fatalities and devastate a neighborhood in seconds.

A tornado appears as a rotating, funnel-shaped cloud that extends from a thunderstorm to the ground with whirling winds that can reach 300 miles per hour. Damage paths can be in excess of one mile wide and 50 miles long. Every state is at some risk from this hazard.

Some tornadoes are clearly visible, while rain or nearby low-hanging clouds obscure others. Occasionally, tornadoes develop so rapidly that little, if any, advance warning is possible.

Before a tornado hits, the wind may die down and the air may become very still. A cloud of debris can mark the location of a tornado even if a funnel is not visible. Tornadoes generally occur near the trailing edge of a thunderstorm. It is not uncommon to see clear, sunlit skies behind a tornado.

Before a Tornado

•To begin preparing, you should build an emergency kit and make a family communications plan.

•Listen to the local dispatch center on a scanner, NOAA Weather Radio or to commercial radio or television newscasts for the latest information. In any emergency, always listen to the instructions given by local emergency management officials.

•Be alert to changing weather conditions. Look for approaching storms.

•Look for the following danger signs:

•Dark, often greenish sky

•Large hail

•A large, dark, low-lying cloud (particularly if rotating)

•Loud roar, similar to a freight train.

•If you see approaching storms or any of the danger signs, be prepared to take shelter immediately.

Tornado Facts

Quick facts you should know about tornadoes:

•They may strike quickly, with little or no warning.

•They may appear nearly transparent until dust and debris are picked up or a cloud forms in the funnel.

•The average tornado moves Southwest to Northeast, but tornadoes have been known to move in any direction.

•The average forward speed of a tornado is 30 mph, but may vary from stationary to 70 mph.

•Tornadoes can accompany tropical storms and hurricanes as they move onto land.

•Waterspouts are tornadoes that form over water.

•Peak tornado season in the southern states is March through May; in the northern states, it is late spring through early summer.

•Tornadoes are most likely to occur between 3 pm and 9 pm, but can occur at any time.

Know the Terms

Familiarize yourself with these terms to help identify a tornado hazard:

•Tornado Watch - Tornadoes are possible. Remain alert for approaching storms. Watch the sky and stay tuned to NOAA Weather Radio, commercial radio or television for information.

•Tornado Warning - A tornado has been sighted or indicated by weather radar. Take shelter immediately.

Gov. Beshear honors three Kentucky Women

Governor Steve Beshear joined the Kentucky Commission on Women this week to honor three distinguished Kentucky women for their illustrious careers and significant contributions to the Commonwealth.

Willa Beatrice Brown, Crit Luallen and Joan Riehm were inducted into the "Kentucky Women Remembered" exhibit. As part of the honor, their portraits will be displayed alongside past inductees in the state Capitol.

"These honorees have made a meaningful difference throughout their years of service and have paved the way for the success of Kentucky women, both now and in the future," Gov. Beshear said. "Jane and I are proud to recognize these individuals for this distinction and hope their influence and achievements will continue to be appreciated and acknowledged for years to come."

The honor comes posthumously to Brown and Riehm. Brown was the first African-American woman to be licensed to fly in the United States. Riehm served for 15 years as the first female deputy mayor of Louisville. Luallen worked for six Kentucky governors and recently completed her second term as Kentucky state auditor.

"Kentucky Women Remembered," overseen by the Kentucky Commission on Women, began in 1978 and consists of portraits depicting outstanding women in Kentucky's history. The exhibit found a permanent home in the Capitol in 1996 after many years of traveling around the state.

Thousands of visitors to the Capitol view the portraits each year and learn about the heritage and contributions of women in Kentucky.

The Kentucky Women Remembered Committee selects up to three Kentucky women annually to become part of the exhibit. Nominees must have been born in or spent a significant part of their lives in Kentucky and may be living or deceased.

"For years, many contributions women have made in the fabric of Kentucky history have gone unnoticed and unrecorded," said Eleanor Jordan, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Women. "This annual ceremony and recognition of women's history month is our way of writing some of those women back into history and highlighting how significant their roles have been to the Commonwealth."

With the three current inductees, the exhibit boasts 65 portraits of outstanding women in Kentucky.

The watercolor portraits of the three inductees were painted by Carla Canonero Phillips, of Frankfort, who is the fifth artist commissioned for the Kentucky Women Remembered exhibit. For more information on the Kentucky Commission on Women and to view the portraits, http://women.
